Administrative Law

Barnwell Whaley administrative law attorneys counsel businesses as they interact with local, state and federal agencies to address the multiple layers of government rules and regulations affecting their business. Further, administrative enforcement actions are growing in number and often require a nearly immediate response. Barnwell Whaley's team of administrative lawyers is equipped to respond quickly and effectively to administrative complaints.

Barnwell Whaley administrative law attorneys advocate for clients involved in disputes with many governmental agencies including among others:

- United States Department of Labor
- United States Department of Agriculture
- United States Department of Homeland Security
- United States State Department
- United State Patent and Trademark Office
- United States Immigration and Customs Enforcement
- United States Department of Health and Human Services
- South Carolina Department of Health and Human Services
- Occupational Safety and Health Act
- United States Federal Trade Commission

This partial list only reinforces the fact that the number of agencies one business may encounter is seemingly endless and a swift response is imperative to ensure a business is able to continue in operation. Barnwell Whaley administrative law attorneys work with their business clients to quickly and efficiently address matters, enabling their clients to focus on their business.
