Business Law

Barnwell Whaley's business and commercial transactions team has experience advising clients including:

- sole proprietorships
- franchises
- venture capital transactions
- deals involving facilities across several states
- international companies with hundreds of employees

On many matters including:

- business sales and purchases
- due diligence reviews
- business formations
- mergers, expansions
- disputes between owners
- dissolutions
- contract negotiations
- government contracts and procurements
- real estate transactions
- commercial leases
- patent and trademark protection
- other commercial transactions

Our attorneys hold engineering, advanced accounting and business administration degrees. This education, coupled with years of experience, affords additional insight and analysis in counseling you on your options for the best possible deal, to help you foresee issues that may arise out of a contract, lease or partnership agreement, and to prevent problems and disputes in your future.
