Business Immigration Litigation

Bradley Banias and the Barnwell Whaley immigration litigation team represents clients who have matters with the Department of Homeland Security, including Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE), U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS), and Customs and Border Patrol (CBP), and the Department of State.

As a former trial attorney in District Court Section of the Office of Immigration Litigation in the Department of Justice, Mr. Banias has significant experience in this niche litigation field. He and the award winning Barnwell Whaley civil litigation team handle immigration litigation relating to:

- adjudication delays for all petitions and applications for immigration benefits (including those delayed for terrorism-related inadmissibility grounds);
- denials of
 - family visas
 - employment visas
 - waivers
 - permanent residency
 - naturalization or citizenship
 - investor visas
 - passports
 - consular and regional center denials
- asylum termination
- challenges to new or proposed immigration regulations
- denaturalization actions
- immigration detention and more.

Although Barnwell Whaley is located in Charleston, South Carolina, Mr. Banias is admitted to and has experience litigating in numerous federal district and circuit courts throughout the United States.
