

Construction Law Attorneys:

M. Dawes Cooke, Jr.

Randell C. Stoney, Jr.

Michael Barfield

Chris Hinnant

Jay Jones

Barbara Wagner

John Fletcher

D. Summers Clarke, II

Jeff Bogdan

Anna Strandberg

Construction Law

Barnwell Whaley attorneys diligently represent clients in matters pertaining to various aspects of commercial and residential construction projects. Barnwell Whaley attorneys have experience representing the interests of:

- Owners
- Developers
- General contractors
- Sub-contractors, including electrical, plumbing, fire protection systems, flooring and floor covering, foundations, framing (wood and steel), heating, ventilation and air conditioning, masonry, roofing, and waterproofing
- Architects
- Engineers
- Surveyors
- Testing companies
- Manufacturers and Suppliers of construction products

Barnwell Whaley construction attorneys advise clients on a variety of issues confronting those involved in the construction industry, including:

- Accessibility-Americans With Disabilities Act
- Fair Housing Act
- Architectural Design, Planning and Administrative Services
- Engineering Design, Planning and Administrative Services
- Building Codes and Building Code Compliance
- Claims Analysis and Mitigation
- Contractual Compliance, Contractual Disputes
- Defects, Delays, Negligence
- Safety and OSHA Standards
- Mold

Disputes frequently arise in connection with construction projects. If mediation of a dispute is possible, Barnwell Whaley certified mediations provide skilled, experienced, objective counsel to reach a resolution amenable to both parties. If litigation becomes necessary, Barnwell Whaley's award-winning litigation team will aggressively represent our clients' interests, protecting future plans and goals.

