Meg enjoys a multi-faceted practice comprising business litigation, medical malpractice, construction defect, maritime, and admiralty matters. She is based in the firm's Wilmington office. A veteran attorney licensed in North Carolina, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania, Meg brings over 25 years of professional experience to the firm.

A zealous advocate for her diverse client base, Meg devises customized strategies to help them achieve their business goals. With her extensive courtroom experience, Meg has handled numerous cases from inception through jury trial and verdict. Understanding that a successful outcome looks different for each client, she is an accomplished negotiator who skillfully guides her clients to settlement when appropriate.

In addition to her law firm experience, Meg taught college-level courses in Pennsylvania on several topics, including business law, civil litigation, communications, marketing, paralegal studies, and microeconomics. Influenced by her law practice, her teaching style emphasized independent thinking, writing, and speaking.

A North Carolina State University graduate, Meg earned her law degree from Widener University School of Law and her Master of Laws in trial advocacy from Temple University School of Law. She enjoys a legacy of volunteering, devoting her time and support to various local charities. Meg is also a Certified Philadelphia County Arbitrator.
